

Rome, March 11st 2020

My family and I feel very close to all of you in our thoughts and prayers during this painful time that humanity is tackling.

I have never underlined how essential it is to respect the instructions we were given in order to fight against the spread of this epidemic.

I am convinced that, thanks to everyone's efforts, our families will soon be able to resume their normal lives.

Furthermore, I would like to express my sincere thanks to all the doctors, nurses, hospital staff and members of the armed forces who keep on ensuring our health through all required precautions.

We must not forget all those who, through their work, guarantee the maintenance of essential services, such as carriers, retailers, pharmacists.

We will make it thanks to everyone's efforts!

Charles of Bourbon Two Sicilies

Duke of Castro